The Faculty is an organization of all Nara Women's University faculty members, which was established in April 2012. The president of the university serves as Dean of The Faculty.

The Faculty consists of three Divisions: The Division of Humanities and Social Sciences, The Division of Natural Sciences, and The Division of Human Life and Environmental Sciences. The Faculty members who belong to one of these three Divisions carry out, with their expert knowledge, the educational research programs of the undergraduate and the graduate schools, and contribute to the development of their fields of study. All The Faculty members also promote their mutual cooperation appropriately and flexibly, across administrative boundaries, in order to settle issues of human resource development and academic research that require increasingly more diverse, sophisticated, and interdisciplinary approaches.
